

Call for Papers

Workshop

Understanding the EU Crisis. Legal, Political and Philosophical Interpretations

18 May 2019

University of Rome Tor Vergata

Sala Belvedere, Villa Mondragone***

Just before the EU elections, this one-day workshop aims at defining the spectrum of prospects that Europe is facing in one of its most severe crises. By promoting an interdisciplinary approach, it will be considered to what extent the EU constitutional architecture is under siege due to a variety of factors such as economic powers, immigration flows, populisms, separatist movements etc. Analyses will discuss the issue of 'deconstitutionalization' and 'fragmentation' of the EU architecture with a particular attention to sovereign involutions and loss of unity of community policies. Consideration will be devoted to the constitutional effects of governance mechanisms such as the Six Pack, the Treaty of the Fiscal Compact and the Treaty of the European Stability Mechanism (MES).

Keynote Speakers

- Prof. R.Bellamy, Director Max Weber Programme, EUI, Florence
- Prof. D.Pieters, KU Leuven, Belgium, Senator at the Belgian Federal Parliament

Chair and Organizer

- Prof. Claudio Corradetti, University of Rome Tor Vergata

Some of the leading questions are the following:

- Has the constitutional architecture of the EU been affected by capitalist transformations?
- Have EU mechanisms of governance changed?
- Is the EU democratic governance under siege?
- What transformative effects have occurred on national policies?

Selected papers will be proposed for publication to the newly established journal 'Jus Cogens. A Critical Journal of Legal Philosophy and Politics', Springer.

If interested send a short bio and an abstract of max 1000 words to Claudio.Corradetti@uniroma2.it before 1 April.

Shortlisted applicants will be notified by 15 April.
